vidual stores, based on whether they determine themselves to be an essential business," said Grant. Also, when the business feels comfortable reopening based on the guidance they're receiving from the state," he added.

Meanwhile, residents should continue their strict adherence to the new temporary rules that are in place and all facilities, playgrounds, Community Center and Senior Center will remain closed for now, said Grant.

Grant said all reopened facilities will have "rigorous health and safety protocols" with "enhanced cleaning" to keep employees and residents safe.

"Traffic is picking up on city streets" said police chief Rod Cox.

Cox asked Cypress motorists to slow down because of an increase number of pedestrians beginning to come out.

Also, he said the city saw a bump in burglaries due to "unoccupied businesses" and vehicles, so he asked residents not to lock anything of value in their vehicles.

Overall, said Cox, crime in Cypress is down 7 percent thus far this year.

Community Services Director Cameron Harding said that park amenities including play equipment and picnic shelters remain closed, but they have opened tennis and pickle ball courts for singles play. All play will be monitored by park staff, he added.

He said the basketball courts and the skate park at Veterans Park are open for four people or less at a time, and they will also be monitored by park staff.

In addition, the park's grassy areas and open spaces are available to the public, provided people maintain social distancing standards. Harding said Cypress School District and Anaheim Union High School district facilities and fields remain closed to the public.

City Clerk Alicia Farnell said the city managed to hold two virtual bid openings and "received positive feedback" from the bidders. She said the city will continue to use this method until state guidelines mandate otherwise.

Also, Farnell said a meeting scheduled for May 18 to recruit new commission members for the city has been cancelled and that the city has reached out to commission members whose terms are up in June to notify them, and the public, when and how new recruitment can be handled.

Until then, she said, all city commission meetings have been cancelled.

Finance Director Matt Burton said the city continues to track COVID response expenses in the event there is an opportunity for state and/or federal reimbursement.

Burton said there is a budget workshop May 26 where he will go into more financial detail about the impact of the virus on city finances.

Burton did say "the revenue declines in the general fund will have serious implications going forward."

Director of Development Doug Dancs said crews were "wrapping up" playground resurfacing and working on civic center improvements, among other projects mentioned.

"Operations continue to run smoothly," he said, adding that they are thinking about bringing back "code enforcement" and working on enterprise software to complete a transition to a "virtual city hall."

His comments prompted council member Stacy Berry to ask city officials not to be too anxious giving parking tickets just yet, saying many families are still gathered in homes and parking space is still not an easy fix.

"I certainly understand the importance of street sweeping but I do have some concerns with ramping back up. I know that the city manager had mentioned will be issuing warnings before citations but with so many people at home now, some working from home and perhaps they don't have a place to move their car or forget to move their car," said Berry.

"I hope we will certainly work with the residents in our city and be understanding of these unprecedented times," she said.

municating it,” said Pulver, “a lot of the times the big ideas” come from staff, he said, including On-drea Reed, the Assistant Superintendent for Educational Services.

He praised the dedication” demonstrated by administrators, teachers, and staff, throughout the system.

Under intense pressure, and with lightning speed, the staff first created an immediate feedback loop for policy making with teachers, principals and all key staff related to school instruction.

Though much of the second semester was over by the time students were separated from their schools, an elemental distance learning program needed to immediately be transformed.

Also, the system also had to choose a grading system that “would do no harm,” yet support the college bound students.

Introduced by Pulver, Reed took the board through its journey of how the staff was able to make changes to provide more focused instruction and how they eventually decided on a grading system.

The shutdown was so unexpected, said Reed, that teachers had to be trained how to use the online system. Dr. Pulver had arranged for laptops to be made available for students without one, and the staff worked with carriers to provide hundreds of mobile hotspots to accommodate students without broadband access.

Following an executive order of the Governor, March 13 was the last day of traditional instruction for the Los Alamitos School District (and all schools throughout the state).

According to Reed, “we spent March 16th and 17th training over 500 teachers and support staff across the district rolling out to nine schools.”

“We really thought we’d get staff on the same page on what we thought would be a 2-3-week emergency,” she said.

Reed said the online teaching platform was launched March 18.

Even then, she said, most still thought “this would be a temporary hold on instruction.”

Reed was in contact with the entire team of key school administrators, teachers and others connected to instruction. There was a strong focus on transitioning the distance learning system from temporary, short term goals to the “long-term goals of our students.”

Among other improvements, they arranged to have only 60-minutes of virtual office hours to at least 90-minutes per day of focused instruction, giving students an opportunity to “cover new material.”

Even as the system began to transform, “many of our teachers had already shifted,” said Reed.

Then, as parents learned the system had a choice of grading systems for the pandemic period, they began flooding teachers, Pulver, Reed and the board with messages.

Inside the system, Reed said she and Dr. Pulver had attended workshops for educators at the county level while they created no fewer than five surveys for key personnel within the system.

The staff researched the grades of the seniors and matched them against potential colleges they may attend. While issuing letter grades would require much more effort, they concluded, this was the best choice for the students.

“I know many members of the community shared interest input with board members, with Dr. Pulver and myself,” said Reed, who said they ultimately decided to honor the “academic grit” of their students.

“They get here at 14 (years-old) and stay until their 18,” said Reed, “and work really, really hard.”

“We wanted them to be recognized for the additional point they could receive in their GPA when they apply to state colleges,” the assistant superintendent said. “So, what we did agree on was a modified gradient scale to closeout spring of 2020.”

She also briefly presented the choices they had made for elementary and middle school will have varying degrees of subject grading, which meet the emergency provisions of the declaration that meet the requirement that no student be held back.

Even with the distance learning enhancements, said Reed, it is not lost on anyone that there will be some catching up to do at some point.

Reed said they are aggressively investigating ways to provide refresher courses in the summer or pre-session next fall, but with the crisis still in motion, they can only monitor and adapt.

During the presentation, she presented in great detail many of the educational metrics around each choice and why decisions were made.

Meg Cutuli, board president, thanked Reed for an “incredibly thorough” report. It was succinct and easy to follow,” she said.

Board member Marlys Davidson, a retired teacher, thanked Pulver and Reed for making the choices they have made.

“There is so much in that presentation that deserves applause,” said Davidson. “It would have been easy for the district to choose the other grading system (non letter grading),” said Davidson.

She marveled at how, during the crisis, the administration surveyed the teachers, “then when the informed changed, “you went right back into a second survey.”

Davidson said as a former teacher, she was proud of how employees in the system were able to adapt at as team.

Pulver said while he remained in constant collaboration with the team, he too was proud what they had accomplished.

“None of this would have been possible without exceptional teachers, administrators and classified staff,” said Pulver.

“They were really thinking differently, trying to find new ways to connect with kids.”

ESOTERIC ASTROLOGY AS NEWS FOR WEEK MAY 20 - 26, 2020

RETROGRADES: A MAGICAL TIME

Last week three major planets reversed their direction. Saturn (in Aquarius), Venus (in Gemini) and Jupiter (in Capricorn). Retrogrades turn us inward to assess, reflect and to inquire deeply about our past. When planets retrograde, the past reappears, decisions are delayed, plans are set aside for reflection and assessment and all areas and subjects associated with the retrograde planets are reviewed in order to either renew, revitalize, reorganize or set them aside forever.

Saturn will retrograde till the end of September, Venus till June 24th and Jupiter till September 12th. In their midst, Mercury retrogrades mid-June. It's a magical upside-down time, of psychologically turning inward, giving us perspective to the past two months of enforced confinement.

Saturn is time. With Saturn retrograde, our sense of time changes. Retrogrades turn things, including time, to previous times. Often we will ask "what time is it again?" Saturn is St. Peter guarding the doors to heaven. Saturn is the scales of justice. The rings of Saturn signify needed limitations Saturn places upon us in order to develop discipline, discernment and discrimination.

With the Venus retrograde we review & reflect upon our values, resources, finances & relationships. We are to discover our real values. It's good to ask do we have values that we can identify? Do our values comply with the world's values? Assessing what actually are our values? And how well we are tending to resources and relationships.

Jupiter expands everything. Sometimes too much. Jupiter is love of knowledge, wisdom, abundance, generosity, temperance. Jupiter is the king of the gods, the teacher, guru, higher mind, college, journeys and understanding the big picture. Jupiter is laws, ethics, religions, spiritual studies. During Jupiter retrograde unexplored blessings are revealed and an appreciation for all things loving dawns on us. We seek to become Goodwill ambassadors.

During retrogrades we assess and re-assess everything. During this retrograde time, we will assess our present crisis, the laws we are living under and how to, with our creative imaginations, begin to create the new world we want to live in. Together. Restoring our faith in all things good.

ARIES: In these magical retrograde times, fulfill all promises, follow rules that make sense to you, act like a Taurus (which may feel a bit restrictive) and make sure that no resistance or opposition influences your attitude and ways of being. Honor is most important and one progresses more easily when the virtues of patience, understanding and grace are cultivated. You can do this. Standing in honor.

TAURUS: Your energy is up and down, high and low, there and not there. Your responsibilities however remain and each day in this crisis more and more appear. You would rather turn away, find friends to chat with, take short trips to town and back, garden, and either envision or research all that's needed for the future. When responsibilities and the need for freedom collide, it's best to simply focus on goals. Or garden where you dream with the devas.

GEMINI: Heavens! There are two distinctly polarized situations occurring. One keeps you behind the scenes and the other desiring to be out in the world where all your values are focused. And actually, it's good to talk about what is of value to you because our values define us. Often you're pulled into quietude and silence, a sort of repose before the storm. You need something. Perhaps it's a lot of praise. In silence revelations happen.

CANCER: You consider your resources and wonder if they need redirecting and you wonder if how you're using them is efficient for both long- and short-term needs. Family necessities crop up and you worry and fret and don't sleep nights and past images and events reoccur and you're sad and wounded sometimes and need help. It's hard to ask for help, isn't it? And hard to trust it will come. A great Teacher said, "Ask & it will be given."

LEO: Each day more and more clarity about values, friends, work purpose and resources occurs and each day you feel more courage to pursue unusual far away goals, to battle for what's right, to realize that a values shift is taking place in your life and this shift may create a future you know nothing about. A new life cycle has begun. It's summoning all hopes, dreams and wishes you've ever had while asking you to follow your deepest heart's wishes. Who has your heart?

VIRGO: The past months have been challenging for Virgos. There's been a shifting of structures, a sense that someone is being your taskmaster and you've had many responsibilities to tend to. Soon, this will end and you will feel a freedom and relief from the taxing demands and tests undergone. You have only a few weeks more. Then it's over. You should quietly celebrate.

LIBRA: A more strict and sober view of life is very quietly beginning to take hold of your thoughts and feelings. This is good. However, it could feel restrictive. Simply consider it as another step in growing up, being responsible, learning how to tend to the demands of life and how to act with more finesse and refinement. There's a struggle for balance, a struggle to be heard and understood. There is no compromise. Be strong and call for courage.

SCORPIO: You had duties and responsibilities. Then personal hopes, wishes and dreams interrupted your obligations. And you had to choose. And then relationship issues (their value) appeared and you felt this is more than I can handle. The reality, something is changing within. It's pushing you to break all previous beliefs and patterned ways of being. Follow these promptings. It's a call from your future. What seems to be real, isn't. Don't resist.

SAGITTARIUS: Tremendous work was called for this month and it will continue. If you take each day and work slowly through it (like a Taurus), then you will come to the end of each day with feelings of great success and pride in your accomplishments. "At the end of the day," we tell our students, "Review the day, and know the day was good." Is there someone you want to contact? Or something you need? Be prepared, after a small respite, for new realities to appear. Rest in between revelations.

CAPRICORN: The force of your creativity and imagination expands when you find yourself in gardens, forests, woods, fields and meadows. It can be found with hands in the dough, hands in the earth, eating plants with deep roots, and in a pantry (or lunchbox) of sweet and savory homemade foods. These are comforting for you and maintain your sense of love, safety and security. There's everything to be passionate about. Everything loves you.

AQUARIUS: What we do each day, what we talk about and believe creates within us a sense of identity. It's possible people from the past may seek your attention. You are delighted yet unsure about others. Careful about things concerning the home. So many changes have occurred concerning home and shelter that continued uncertainty makes one feel jittery and unsure. Pray to the devas for the very best home to be available. A home with safety, beauty and security. Devas are your friends.

PISCES: You are reminded of a long-held vision held in your heart in service to humanity. You seek independence within this endeavor and vast resources. You know you're fully capable and have the essential qualities and gifts to bring this into form and matter, to move forward into your future and make correct decisions based upon humanity's present needs. Patience is still needed. You pray for direction. You wear a mantle and a crown.

ORDINANCE NO. 2020-05

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF LOS ALAMITOS, CALIFORNIA, REPEALING ORDINANCE NO. 2018-03 AND REMOVING CHAPTER 9.30 FROM THE LOS ALAMITOS MUNICIPAL CODE

Legals-NE

WHEREAS, on October 5, 2017, Governor Jerry Brown signed into law the California Values Act (SB 54), Government Code §§ 7284 et seq. ("CVA"). The CVA limits the ability of cities throughout California to cooperate with federal authorities, and specifically Immigration and Customs Enforcement officials in enforcing federal immigration law; and,

WHEREAS, on March 19, 2018, the Los Alamitos City Council introduced, and on April 16, 2018 adopted, Ordinance No. 2018-03, adding Chapter 9.30 to the Los Alamitos Municipal Code entitled "Constitution of the United States Compliance", which purported to exempt the City of Los Alamitos from the CVA; and,

WHEREAS, on April 18, 2018, Los Alamitos Community United, Reverend Samuel Pullen and Henry J. Josefsberg filed a petition for writ of mandate and complaint in Orange County Superior Court entitled Los Alamitos Community United, et al v. City of Los Alamitos, et al., Case No. 30-2018-00987018 (hereafter, the "Community United Litigation"), which argued Ordinance No. 2018-03 was preempted by the CVA; and,

WHEREAS, on April 4, 2018, the City of Huntington Beach filed a lawsuit against the State of California et al. arguing that the CVA was unconstitutional as applied to charter cities pursuant to Art. XI, § 5 of the California Constitution (hereafter, the "Huntington Beach Litigation"); and,

WHEREAS, on September 7, 2018, the Community United Litigation was transferred to the honorable James L. Crandall, the same Superior Court Judge handling the Huntington Beach Litigation; and,

WHEREAS, on October 9,

Legals-NE

2018, Judge James L. Crandall issued a written order in the Huntington Beach Litigation finding that the CVA violated the constitutional right of the City of Huntington Beach, as a charter city, regarding the constitution, regulation and government of its police force; and,

WHEREAS, on October 29, 2018, to conserve judicial and party resources, the Community United Plaintiffs and the City of Los Alamitos agreed to stay all proceedings in the Community United Litigation pending appellate resolution of the Huntington Beach Litigation; and,

WHEREAS, on January 10, 2020, the California Court of Appeal overturned the Superior Court's ruling in the Huntington Beach Litigation, holding the CVA is constitutional as applied to charter cities because it addresses matters of statewide concern—including public safety and health, effective policing, and protection of constitutional rights—is reasonably related to resolution of those statewide concerns, and is narrowly tailored to avoid unnecessary interference in local government; and,

WHEREAS, on April 2, 2020, the California Supreme Court declined to hear Huntington Beach's appeal, thereby upholding the Court of Appeal's decision; and,

WHEREAS, in recognition of the binding legal precedent now established by the California Court of Appeal, and to avoid the expense of continuing litigation on a settled question of law, the City of Los Alamitos and the Community United Plaintiffs have entered into a Settlement Agreement and Release of Claims, which requires the repeal of Ordinance No. 2018-03.
